Hi, I am Simran Ghosh

I am a Graphic designer focused on branding, posters, web design and digital visuals. I'm also a part of my college's official design society, constantly learning and experimenting.

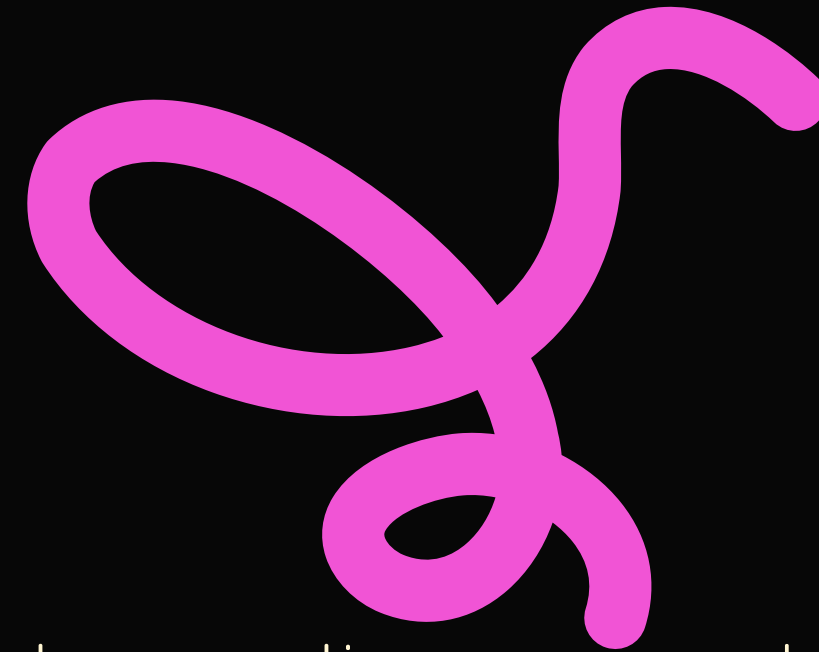

I love turning ideas into visuals and seeing them come alive on screen.

Part of my college's official design society, actively contributing to and participating in multiple college and inter-college events.

Collaborating with diverse creatives has allowed me to explore new perspectives and ideas.

Over the past year, I've consistently refined my skills through hands-on experience and teamwork.

Each project has helped me grow into a more thoughtful and adaptable designer.

Vision & Creative Approach

I approach design as a balance between clarity and emotion, where visuals not only look good but communicate with purpose.

My process is rooted in exploring ideas, experimenting with different directions, and refining what feels most meaningful.

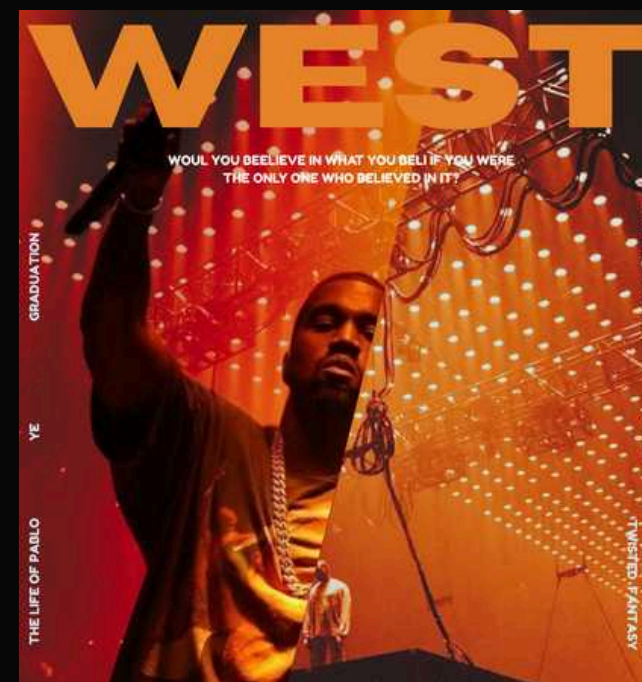

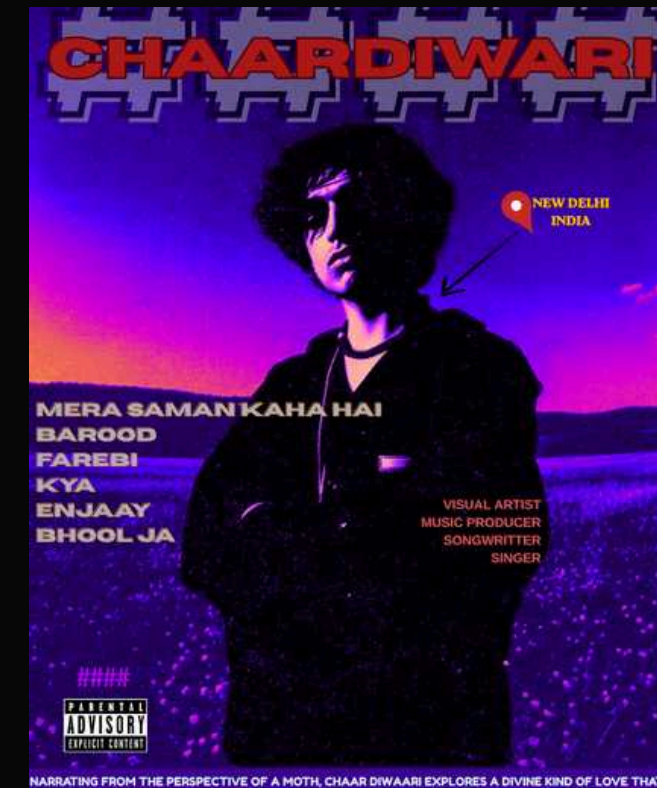

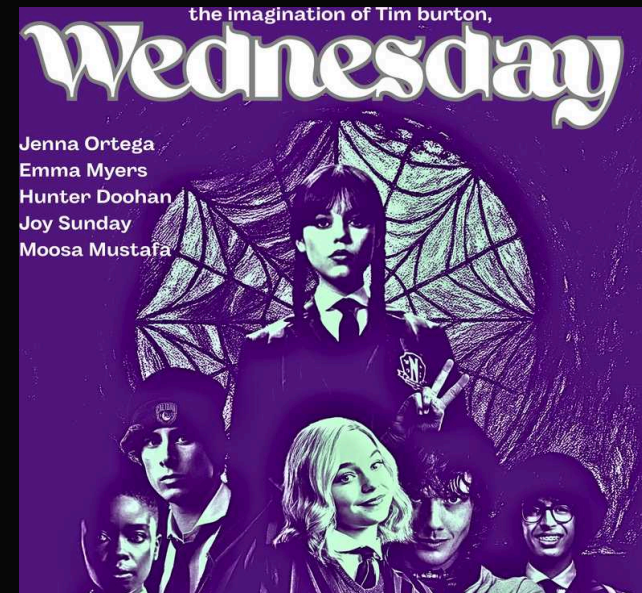

I draw inspiration from collaboration and real experiences, allowing each project to evolve naturally.

My vision is to create designs that feel intentional, engaging, and leave a lasting impression.

WEBSITE DESIGN

THE CHALLENGE

This café website concept reimagines a Kolkata eatery through an aesthetic, ethnic lens—blending the warmth of old Calcutta with a clean, modern interface. Inspired by the city's culture, textures, and everyday adda, the design highlights affordability while preserving a sense of nostalgia and charm. From visual storytelling to layout, every element reflects a balance of past and present. A dedicated contact page invites users to connect, continuing the idea of conversations over adda and a cup of tea.
